Debt Capital Markets

International Bond Issues

In addition to the activity in the Indian equity capital markets, a number of Indian companies accessed the international debt capital markets as well, through a combination of masala bonds, investment grade and high yield bond offerings. We advised on major debt issuances by Indian companies in this period, including on the issuances of notes under medium term note programs. Our work in this area includes:

The financial year 2018 – 2019 also saw heightened activity in the Indian public debt markets, which continued well into the financial year 2019 – 2020. Public issuances of nonconvertible INR denominated debentures have been used as a mechanism for fund raising by a number of issuer entities in the financial services space. We advised on some of the largest PDIs in this period. Our PDI work includes:

Other Key Developments in India

The end of the financial year 2019-2020 was unfortunately marred by the international outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic, with a number of countries (including India) implementing large scale nationwide lockdowns and stay at home orders. This has had an adverse impact on equity and debt capital markets both domestically and internationally. This situation should hopefully improve once the business community has come to terms with the various changes to ways of doing business that the pandemic has forced on everyone, including working from home and limiting physical meetings. Once the pandemic has been controlled to an extent, it is expected that markets will start to recover.

“Well-equipped to handle the full scope of domestic and international capital markets transactions.”
